Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

Claim 1-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(a) as being anticipated by Benenati et al "A Seamless Mobile VPN Data Solution for CDMA2000, * UMTS, and WLAN Users". With respect to claim 1 Benenati teaches a method for integrating a Wireless Local Area Network (WLAN) and a Wireless Wide Area Network (WWAN) (see page 145 right hand column line 11 – page 146 left hand column line 16), the method comprising steps of: receiving at a WLAN Serving Node (WSN) a Remote Authentication Dial-In User Service (RADIUS) Request message from an Access Point

With respect to claim 2, locating in the WWAN a Home-Authentication, Authorization, and Accounting (Home-AAA) server (see figure 2); sending a RADIUS Request message from the WSN to H-AAA, the RADIUS Request message including the terminal's credentials; authenticating the terminal at the Home-AAA; and sending from the Home-AAA to the WSN a RADIUS Request message, the RADIUS Request message including a key information (see page 148 right hand column line 3 – page 151 left hand column line 18).

With respect to claim 3, receiving the key information at the WSN; and sending from the WSN to the AP a RADIUS Accept Response message, the RADIUS Accept Response message including a key information (see page 148 right hand column line 3 – page 151 left hand column line 18).

With respect to claim 4, generating a key at the WSN for encrypting and decrypting traffic of packet data between the WSN and the terminal (see page 149 right hand column lines 4-13 i.e. Internet key exchange).

With respect to claim 8, a Wireless Local Area Network Serving Node (WSN) for authenticating a terminal, the WSN for performing the following method: receiving a Remote Authentication Dial-In User Service (RADIUS) Request message from an Access Point (AP), the RADIUS Request message including terminal's credentials (see page 151 left hand column line 35 – page 151 right hand column line 19); proxying the RADIUS Request message at a RADIUS proxy capability (see page 151 left hand column line 35 – page 151 right hand column line 19); authenticating the terminal using the terminal's credentials (see page 151 left hand column line 35 – page 151 right hand column line 19); and managing charging operations for the terminal (see page 148 right hand column line 3 – page 151 left hand column line 18).

With respect to claim 9, the WSN is further capable of: locating in the WWAN Home-Authentication, Authorization, and Accounting (Home-AAA) server; and sending to the Home-AAA a RADIUS Request message, the RADIUS Request message including the terminal's credentials (see page 148 right hand column line 3 – page 151 left hand column line 18).

With respect to claim 10, the WSN is further capable of receiving from the Home-AAA a RADIUS Response message, the RADIUS Response message including a key information (see page 148 right hand column line 3 – page 151 left hand column line 18).

With respect to claim 11, the WSN is further capable of using the key information for generating a key for encrypting and decrypting traffic of packet data between the WSN and the terminal (see page 149 right hand column lines 4-13 i.e. Internet key exchange).

With respect to claim 13, the WSN is further capable of: starting counters for accounting; and sending accounting information to the H-AAA (see page 148 right hand column line 3 – page 151 left hand column line 18).
